Well summer is almost upon us and I hope the weather is being kind to you no matter where you rest your head. And, if you are traveling during the dog days of summer try and keep cool, especially when you are pumping gas. Most importantly be alert and aware of your surroundings.

This past month we met in Port St. Lucie and had a very successful meeting which was attended by around 50 members. Our next meeting is on the 19th of May and will be held in Boynton Beach at the Boynton PD FOP Lodge hall. We will have speakers at the meeting so please if you are attending come early to help set up.

As usual there will be a summer break from our monthly scheduled meetings. June will be the last until we start up again in September. But we will not completely abandon you for the summer. We hope to have a R.O.M.E.O. luncheon during the month of August. Date, place and time yet to be determined.

There is much ahead for our lodge in the rest of the coming year. When we return from our summer hiatus we will be working towards our FIRST ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT. The date for that is October 7th and it will be held at The Village Golf Club in Royal Palm Beach. We look forward to this venture since it is our first, and we hope the first of many. There is a flyer within these pages with information to register, so please register early. We are also looking for sponsors for the outing. So, if you have any favorite restaurants or other businesses that you frequent, ask if they will help support this effort. Additionally we look forward to aiding two charities, Tunnel To Towers and a local Veterans program.

We have decided to become part of the crazy scene during the largest betting time of the year. You got that right, SUPER BOWL! We have started a Super Bowl Box that will tempt those that like to take a chance. Each box will be 500 points with the grand prize to be 25,000 points. All the correspondence will be through our hotmail address and we hope you will partake, even if you do not follow the game.

Of course with the fall season comes the dues collection for 2023. We will be sending notices out with return envelopes. We ask that you respond as soon as you get them as this is a great task for your executive board. We are looking for a possible connection with either PayPal or Venmo to help with the process. More to come on this later.

Finally our Holiday Bash. With all that is going wrong with our overall economy unfortunately the cost of the party will be more than last year. We tried to hold it down for as long as we could but you all know how that story goes. Please plan to join us as we celebrate a joyous time of the year before it ends. More to come on this in the coming months.

We know it is crazy but what can we do. Golf Outing, Dues and Holiday Party, just remember we are retired and should enjoy the fruits of our labors. And where is there a better place then Florida to do it.

Please read through the pages of this issue, there is much inside to wet your palate. It is no small task to put this monthly piece of art together. We thank our editor, Harvey Feit, for his dedication and hard work. Hope to see those that can make it to the May 19th meeting and in the meantime, Stay Safe.

Arnie Dansky

But You Didn't Know

I didn't enjoy writing tickets - But you didn't know

I cried when I found your daughter lying in a ditch, high on meth - But you didn't know

I was devastated when I found the 32 year old veteran dead from a self-inflicted gunshot wound - But you didn't know

I missed my kids birthdays, school plays and family trips because I had to work - But you didn't know

I had nightmares about the 2 year old I found crushed under a truck tire while mom was inside buying dope - But you didn't know

I really struggled with EVERY death notification I made to a family about their loved one - But you didn't know

I was never comfortable at social gatherings because with the things I've seen, I can't trust anyone - But you didn't know

I've seen things you could never even imagine - But you didn't know

I really didn't like putting people in jail - But you didn't know

My job was hard on my family - But you didn't know

I had problems, just like everyone else - But you didn't know

The next time you see an officer, or any first responder, remember that they are people first and there is no training in the world that prepares them for the things they see and do on a daily basis.

Avoid Scams When Donating to Disaster Relief:

Following disasters, consumers can avoid scams by donating to recovery and relief efforts through registered charities. The Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (FDACS) is the regulatory agency for charities in the state of Florida.

Consumers can confirm the legitimacy of a charity through the department's Check-A-Charity tool, which is one of several resources available to find additional information on charitable organizations in Florida. Consumers can also call 1-800-HELP-FLA or 1-800-FL-AYUDA, en Español, or visit FloridaConsumerHelp.com.

Here are tips to avoid scam charities:

Check if the organization is properly registered with the state: In addition to checking the organization on our Check-a-Charity tool, consumers can reference the Better Business Bureau's Wise Giving Alliance, which evaluates charities against comprehensive Standards for Charity Accountability to help donors make informed giving decisions.

Ask how exactly your donation will be used, what specific cause it will go towards, and how much of the contribution will be used for program services: Consumers should not assume their donation will be spent a particular way. If you are solicited for a contribution, ask to see written information about the organization, and a breakdown of how the money is being utilized.

Ask if your donation is tax deductible: Although many organizations are tax-exempt and contributions to their causes are tax-deductible, not every organization that solicits contributions is tax-deductible. Ask for the organization's tax-exempt number issued by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) or use the IRS Tax Exempt Organization Search tool.

Amid rising crime rates, Mayor Eric Adams will sit down with NYPD commanding officers.

Mayor Eric Adams has called a meeting with the NYPD's commanding officers to solicit ideas about combatting soaring crime in the Big Apple ahead of the historically bloody summer month, The Post has learned.

Hizzoner is set to sit down with the COs Saturday afternoon in One Police Plaza — and he's asked them to each bring three plans to reduce crime in their patrol areas, according to sources.

Adams has also requested statistics on crime, summonses, homeless encampment clearings and Civilian Complaint Review Board cases, as well as information on each command's integrity control officer, the sources said.

The mayor confirmed the upcoming meeting during an interview with The Post's editorial board on Wednesday.

"I have a major meeting this weekend with all of my commanders," he said. "We're going to sit down for several hours to get our summer plan in order, as well as, think how we deploy police."

The planned sit-down is similar to the department's Compstat meeting in which COs are grilled on crime in their patrols areas.

But not everyone is taking it seriously. One source with knowledge of the meeting quipped that commanders think bringing ideas to combat crime is a "joke."

The gathering comes as Adams ends his fourth month in office with crime and gun violence still on the rise — after sailing to a mayoral victory campaigning on getting the bloodshed under control in Gotham.

Adams also requested statistics on crime, summonses, homeless encampment clearings and Civilian Complaint Review Board cases, as well as information on each command's integrity control officer.

Suspects walk free after arrests by NYPD's new anti-gun teams

By Craig McCarthy and

Gabrielle Fonrouge

April 24, 2022 3:53pm

Updated

Four men allegedly busted with weapons — including some that were loaded — by the NYPD's new anti-gun unit were allowed to walk free within hours of their arrest, thanks to lax judges and bail reform, The Post has learned.

The NYPD said the new Neighborhood Safety Teams made 25 gun arrests in their first three weeks since launching in March, but The Post was only able to obtain court records or information for 12 of the cases.

Of those 12, just one man remains behind bars — meaning 11 of the defendants are back on the street, including the four who were cut loose with no bail. The others had posted bail that was set in their respective cases.

One of the sprung includes Tyquise Bell, 23, who was allegedly nabbed by NST cops on March 30 in the Bronx after they spotted a 9mm Taurus pistol inside the lower leg of his pants, court records say.

"I found it for sure. Two days ago. I've only had it for two days," Bell allegedly told police during the bust, according to a criminal complaint.

During his arraignment the next day, the Bronx District Attorney's Office and Judge Srividya Pappachan, a former public defender and a Bill de Blasio appointee, agreed to spring him on supervised release because the charges weren't bail eligible, records show.

A day later in Brooklyn, two more NST arrestees were freed shortly after their arrests on gun charges.

Xayvion Rodgers, 19, was drinking out of a Casamigos tequila bottle around 1:30 a.m. in Bedford-Stuyvesant when an NST unit spotted a loaded 9mm pistol on him, court records say.

Rodgers took off running from the cops and dropped the gun, which his co-defendant Robert Griffin, 19, picked up and shoved into a plastic shopping bag, the records show.

Inside the bag was a loaded B6C Sarsilmaz pistol with one cartridge in the chamber and 12 cartridges in the magazine, court papers show.

The duo was charged with second-degree firearm possession, a felony charge for which bail can be set, but during their arraignment, Judge Phyllis Chu freed them both on supervised release, records show.

Prosecutors from the Brooklyn District Attorney's Office asked Chu, another de Blasio appointee, to hold Rodgers on a $10,000 cash, $20,000 bond or $40,000 partially secured bond. But she declined.

When Griffin was arraigned, prosecutors consented to supervised release after seeing that his co-defendant had just been sprung by Chu, the DA's Office said.

Later that month, a Brooklyn judge sprung Marcos Malvar without bail following his March 26 bust by NST cops on felony firearm possession charges, according to court records.

Malvar, 21, was pulled over in a car that had drugs inside — and cops also turned up a loaded Hi Point Model CF .380 firearm, a semiautomatic weapon, with three rounds of ammo inside his bedroom dresser.

He was also charged with criminal obstruction of breathing for allegedly choking his girlfriend, the mother of his children, records show.

Assistant District Attorney Ari Rottenberg said during Malvar's arraignment on both cases that the offenses were bail eligible but "given the specific circumstances" of the matter, he recommended Judge Laura Johnson cut him loose on supervised release, according to a transcript of the proceeding.

Johnson ended up releasing Malvar on his own recognizance.

The Brooklyn DA's Office said that despite Rottenberg's statements in court that the charges were bail eligible, bail couldn't actually be set on the firearms count under state law.

Recent changes to the controversial bail guidelines that were passed in the state budget still wouldn't have allowed prosecutors to ask a judge to hold Malvar, the DA's office noted. Starting May 9, judges can only set bail for felony firearm possession charges if the defendant had previously been charged with having an illegal gun and is then found with one again.

The NSTs — a revamped version of the NYPD's controversial anti-crime unit disbanded in 2020 and a key pillar to Mayor Eric Adams' fight to curb gun violence — launched in March in response to the city's surge in gun violence.

City Hall and the NYPD have so far given varying arrest data from the program's first three weeks. Most recently, on April 6, Chief of Department Ken Corey said the NSTs made 135 busts and that 67% of the suspects had a prior arrest record. Of the 25 gun arrests the NYPD said the teams have made, four of the suspects were juveniles, five had open felony cases and seven had been previously convicted of a crime. Of the 135 total busts, which were for a range of offenses, 91 had prior arrest records, 57 had a prior arrest for a major felony and 21 were on parole or probation. Of the dozen cases reviewed by The Post, Dwayne Davis, 44, was the only defendant to be held without bail after he allegedly shot someone multiple times on March 18 in the Bronx. He is charged him with attempted murder and felony firearm possession. So far this year, shootings are up 10% across the city compared to the same period in 2021, with 354 reports of gunfire — a rate of more than three shootings per day. The scourge has killed and maimed a host of innocent bystanders, including several children. On April 8, 16-year-old Angellyh Yambo was shot to death by a fellow teen just a block from her Bronx high school and two other kids were injured after Jeremiah Ryan, 17, allegedly opened fire with a “ghost gun” during a dispute. On March 31, 12-year-old Kade Lewin was killed when a stray bullet struck him in the head while he was sitting in a parked car with two relatives in Brooklyn. And on March 25, a 3-year-old girl was hit while leaving her daycare but miraculously survived. Just days earlier, a 7-year-old girl was grazed by a stray bullet while standing with her mother at a Coney Island intersection and in January, a Bronx baby just days away from her first birthday was shot in the face while strapped to a car seat in her mother's vehicle.

The Cops are Doing Their Jobs - Other Parts of Criminal Justice System Result in Catch and Release of Criminals

April 25, 2022

Dear Lieutenant:

It is blatantly obvious that the men and women of the New York City Police Department are doing their job to fight crime. They are out on the streets, putting their lives on the line, to remove illegal guns from violent criminals in an effort to reduce deaths associated with gun violence. It has also become abundantly clear that the men and women of the NYPD are the only people in the criminal justice system conscientiously and effectively fulfilling their duty to protect the people of New York.

Other portions of the criminal justice system, specifically most District Attorneys and many judges, have more empathy for the criminal than the victim. This concern routinely results in an expeditious judicial release of violent criminals who inevitably return to the streets to victimize others. It is incredible how the District Attorneys and judges are not held accountable for their criminal advocacy.

I will repeat, ad nauseum, that the state legislature must listen to the people of New York and repeal the broken Bail Reform Bill. The Bail Reform Bill does not create equality in the criminal justice system, it only creates more crime, more victims, more shootings, and more murders.

The officers of the NYPD are responsible to enforce the law and arrest those who break the law. Our members do this daily. Sometimes they sacrifice their lives in performing their sworn duty. The District Attorneys and judges are responsible for prosecuting and detaining criminals. This is where the criminal justice system is breaking down. The reason for this is due to District Attorneys who refuse to prosecute, judges who refuse to detain violent criminals, and the criminal friendly NYS State Legislators who passed Bail Reform.

This contrary and conflicted criminal justice system ultimately results in the “Catch & Release” of violent criminals. These criminals bear no accountability for their anti-social actions and pay no penalty, all to the detriment of the law-abiding citizenry. The police do their job to “Catch” the criminals but the District Attorneys, judges and the criminal advocacy legislation of the NYS Legislature result in the “Release” of violent criminals.

We recently sent a communication to Commissioner Sewell requesting that the following information be provide to the LBA:

- How many total individuals were arrested during riots of 2020 and how many of these individuals were prosecuted and convicted for the crimes for which they were arrested.
- Of the over 4,431 gun arrests made by members of the department in the year 2021, how many of the people arrested were prosecuted and convicted of illegally possessing a weapon – firearm?

How can we, in good conscience, ask our members to jeopardize their lives to remove illegal guns off the streets if there are no criminal repercussions or consequences for the criminal(s)?

As soon as we hear back from the Commissioner, we will let the membership know what her response was to this request.

MY CAR KEYS

They weren't in my pockets.

Suddenly I realized I must have left them in the car. Frantically, I headed for the parking lot.

My husband has scolded me many times for leaving my keys in the car's ignition. He's afraid that the car could be stolen. As I looked around the parking lot, I realized he was right.

The parking lot was empty.

I immediately called the police.

I gave them my location, confessed that I had left my keys in the car, and that it had been stolen.

Then I made the most difficult call of all to my husband: "I left my keys in the car and it's been stolen."

There was a moment of silence.

I thought the call had been disconnected, but then I heard his voice. "Are you kidding me?" he YELLED, "I dropped you off!"

Now it was my turn to be silent.

Embarrassed, I said, "Well, come and get me."

He retorted, "I will, as soon as I convince this cop that I didn't steal your car!"

Welcome to the Golden Years.

Keep your personal information safe in the New Year

Protect your information by using or updating “your security software” and “protect your personal information” to the mix. Scammers and hackers are always looking for new ways to steal your personal information online.

Here are some steps you can take to help protect yourself and your information:

- Keep your security software, internet browser, and operating system up to date. Updating your software regularly helps make sure you have critical patches and protections against security threats.
- Create and use strong passwords. Making a password longer — 12 characters or more — is one of the easiest ways to increase its strength. Consider using a passphrase of random words so that your password is more memorable, but avoid using common words or phrases. Check out this password checklist, and don’t use the same password for different accounts.
- Use multi-factor authentication. Some accounts offer extra security by requiring two or more credentials to log in. You may have to give both a password and a passcode you get from an authentication app to log into your account. Multi-factor authentication makes it harder for scammers to log in to your accounts even if they manage to steal your username and password.
- Back up your data to protect it. Keep an extra copy of all your files with a secure cloud storage service, or save your files to an external storage device. That way, if something happens — say a virus, your device crashes, or you’re hacked — you still have your files.
- Protect your home network. Your devices, accounts, and whole network are only as secure as your router, since it’s the connecting point between your devices and the internet. Check out how to make your router more secure.

By taking a few steps, you’ll be able to enjoy the feeling of accomplishment that comes with checking something off your list! Also, remember to report fraud, scams, or bad business practices to the FTC at ReportFraud.ftc.gov. And happy New Year from your friends at the FTC.
